

RESIDENTIAL GROWTH PLAYBOOK · PREPARED FOR CALEB WEST & EMERGE BUILT

FILL THE RESIDENTIAL LINE WITH THE SUITE NEXT DOOR.

Caleb, you told me you only care about one thing: product distribution. This is how we distribute the residential product. A machine that takes a homeowner from "I didn't know I could build that" to a booked call with your team, on autopilot. It's laid out so completely you could run it yourself. You'll want us to run it for you.

Prepared for Caleb West · reviewed with Greg Zemrau & the Emerge team · By John Milne, Apex ACQ · July 2026

00 WHAT I HEARD FROM YOU

Before the plan, here's your situation in your own words, so you know this is built for Emerge and not off a template. If I've got anything wrong, that's the first thing we fix on Friday.

THE PRODUCT

You build big things indoors. 85 to 90% done in the factory, craned into place like Lego, one drain inspection and it's done. CSA-approved, so the city doesn't re-inspect.

THE FOCUS

We are pointing this at the residential buyer only: laneway homes, in-law suites, duplexes and fourplexes. Not the developer or the land-JV work. That's a different game and I won't pretend an ad wins it.

THE CAPACITY

Roughly a 40,000 sq ft residential line, the rest kept for your finished units. This plan is built to keep that line full, not to swallow the factory.

THE BUYER

Emotionally motivated, not price-shopping. Someone building a suite for Mom, or a fourplex where local trades don't even exist, like Prince George. They buy the outcome.

THE MANDATE

Sell the outcome, not the factory. Least words, least time. Qualify fast, get them to a human. That is exactly how this is engineered.

THE PROOF IT WORKS

An AI named Sarah called you, qualified you, and booked this exact conversation. That same engine is what we point at your buyers.

ONE THING YOU SAID THAT IS THE WHOLE STRATEGY

"Most of the people who can afford to do this are not on social media, but there is that capacity with the aspiring newer developer." You're right, and that's the line we walk: the mom-and-pop building a suite for their kid or their parents IS reachable with ads. The land baron doing an 80-unit JV is not. We fish where the fish are, and for residential, they're on Google and Meta.

THE FULL KIT

This isn't a slide deck. It's the working system, built end to end. Four surfaces:

01 THE OPPORTUNITY

The wind is at your back harder than it has ever been. Three things are happening at once: a housing shortage nobody can hand-build their way out of, a wave of law changes that made a second home legal on nearly every lot out west, and cheap government money to pay for it. Factory-built is the only answer that scales. That's you.

4.8M

New homes Canada needs this decade to restore affordability, roughly double the current build pace¹

~85K

AB + BC construction workers, about 23% of each trade workforce, retiring by 2033³

$80K

Federal loan now offered to homeowners at 2% over 15 years to build a suite⁸

20K+

Legal suites now on Calgary's registry, doubled in about 2.5 years⁶

The math doesn't work without you

Canada has to roughly double its home-building pace, and CMHC says outright it can't be done "without a significantly larger and modernized workforce."¹ But nearly one in four tradespeople in Alberta and BC leaves the site for good within about seven years.³ Nobody can hammer their way out of this. The only lever that bends the curve is moving the labour indoors, into a factory. That is exactly what your 40-plus patents and your one-floor-of-units-a-day crane process already do. The story writes itself: where local trades are scarce, or don't exist at all like you said about Prince George, you show up with a finished home and a crew for a week.

The law just handed you a market

BC's Bill 44 killed single-family-only zoning province-wide. Three to four units are now legal as-of-right on essentially every residential lot, up to six near transit.⁵ Edmonton allows up to eight units on most low-density lots.⁶ Overnight, hundreds of thousands of ordinary backyards became legal build sites. Most of the homeowners who own them still have no idea. That gap between "it's legal now" and "nobody told me" is the entire opportunity, and it has a clock on it: Calgary's blanket rezoning is set to be repealed in Aug 2026, with earlier applications grandfathered.⁷

02 WHY RESIDENTIAL, AND WHY NOW

You were clear you don't want the whole factory turned into laneway homes, and you shouldn't. This fills your ~40,000 sq ft residential line and keeps it full, no more, no less. Residential is where we start for three reasons.

REACHABLE

This buyer is findable

Unlike your developer clients, the homeowner building a backyard suite Googles "cost to build a laneway house" and scrolls Instagram at night. Vancouver alone has built 7,000-plus laneway homes since 2009.¹⁰ You can find this person with paid media. You cannot find a land baron that way.

URGENT

The clock is real

Calgary's rezoning repeal in Aug 2026 and its suite incentive going to a waitlist in June 2026⁸ are genuine "build now or miss it" levers. We point ads at real deadlines, never invented ones. Damaging-admission honesty is what builds trust with this buyer.

UNCONTESTED

The field is asleep

The modular and ADU builders out west hide their pricing, offer no financing help, and never tell the rental-income story. The two brands that do the opposite are the two that win.¹¹ We copy what works and out-execute everyone coasting.

03 THE BUYER

We're not selling to "homeowners." We're selling to four specific people, each with a different reason to build and each needing a different ad. Getting this right is 80% of why the campaign works. Every one of these is a residential buyer, exactly the person you described.

1. The caregiver

"I want Mom close, but not under the same roof." Your words on the call. Multigenerational households are the fastest-growing household type in the country, up 21% since 2001.⁹ Emotional, not price-shopping. We sell dignity, independence, and a suite in the backyard that beats a care home.

2. The parent of an adult kid

"My son can't afford to move out for university." Roughly 2.5 million Canadians over 25 still live with their parents.⁹ This buyer wants their kid launched and their home worth more. We sell a place for them to live now that becomes a rental later.

3. The income investor

"I want the backyard to pay me." A Vancouver laneway rents for $2,000 to $3,200 a month and lifts the property value by a large share of build cost.¹² We sell the payback math and the equity, with a calculator right on the page.

4. The lot owner doing a duplex or fourplex

"Bill 44 says I can put four units here." Owns a lot, sees the new zoning, has never built. We sell certainty: fixed factory price, one crane day, no trade-shortage delays, a crew in and out in a week. Your model, not a promise.

WHERE ALBERTA DIFFERS, AND THE OBJECTION NOBODY ANSWERS

Albertans don't type "laneway." They type "backyard suite," "garage suite," "garden suite." We buy every local word so we're not paying for the wrong province's language. And the real objection for all four is "how do I pay for it." Ottawa now lends up to $80,000 at 2% over 15 years to build a suite.⁸ Almost nobody in the market is telling homeowners that. We will, and it's the single biggest unlock in the plan.

04 THE LANDSCAPE

I pulled apart how every modular and ADU builder out west markets itself. They compete on product and neglect the funnel. Here's the field, and the seven open doors we walk through.

Who's out there

- ROC Modular (S. Alberta), your closest peer. Markets like a contractor: no pricing, thin galleries, "Contact Us." Beatable on the funnel.
- Honomobo (Edmonton), the best-marketed player and the bar. Shows prices openly, has a financing page, strong PR.¹¹
- Smallworks / Lanefab (Vancouver), own the "laneway cost" content and SEO by publishing full price breakdowns.
- Modworks (Edmonton/Calgary), closest AB ADU peer, and asleep: no pricing, no financing, no ROI story.
- Stack Modular, manufactures in Shanghai. Wide open to a "built in Alberta, no ocean freight, no tariff risk" attack.

The seven gaps we exploit

- Pricing opacity, everyone hides it; the two who publish, win. We publish a "starting from" and a calculator.
- No financing guidance, we own the $80K federal loan and refi conversation.
- No rental-income story, we make the suite pay for itself on the page.
- Decayed local SEO, "garage suite builder Edmonton" is under-defended.
- "Built in Alberta" is unclaimed, local steel, local jobs, no offshore risk. You own it.
- No configurators, a pick-a-model, get-an-estimate tool would lead the category.
- Nobody uses the CSA angle, "factory-approved, the city doesn't re-inspect" is a trust bomb nobody's throwing.

The takeaway: the winners win on transparency, content and financing, not a better box. You already have the best box, plus a "27 years, 40-plus patents, one floor a day, CSA-approved" story none of them can match. We say it louder and put a funnel under it.

05 M1 · THE MESSAGE

The first of the three Ms every engine runs on: Message, Marketing, Method. Message is the words and the offer. You nailed the brief yourself: sell the six-pack, not the chicken and rice. Nobody buys structural steel. They buy their mother living next door.

The core reposition

Away from "faster, greener, quieter construction," which is about you, toward the outcome the buyer pictures: "A second home in your backyard. Built in our factory, craned in, livable in weeks not years." Your proof points, 27 years, 40-plus patents, CSA-approved, half the time of a site build, become the reasons-to-believe underneath the promise, never the headline.

The offer that converts

A $200K-plus decision stalls on uncertainty. We kill it with one concrete, low-friction first step: "Find out what your lot qualifies for and what your suite would cost, free, in 3 minutes." That's the lead magnet, the ad promise, and the landing-page headline, all matched. Not "request a consultation." A specific, valuable, instant answer. The full page is built out in The Funnel →

THE ONE-PAGE STORY (RULE OF ONE)

Your backyard is now legal to build on → most people don't know → here's what yours qualifies for → here's the suite → here's what it rents for and adds to your home → here's how to pay for it → book a call. Every ad, page and email tells one slice of that story. One reader, one promise, one next step.

06 M2 · THE MARKETING

The second M: how we get in front of the right people and make them raise a hand. Three channels, each with a job. We buy the demand that exists, manufacture the demand that doesn't, and borrow trust from people who already have it. Every ad is written out in The Swipe Kit →

1. Google Search + Map Pack

CAPTURE INTENT

The buyer who types "garage suite builder Calgary" is ready now. We own those searches and the local map pack, the lowest-funnel, highest-return dollar, and the field has half-abandoned it.¹⁰

Start: $60-100/day, tight exact and phrase match, a hard negative-keyword wall so we never pay for tire-kickers or the wrong province's terms.

2. Meta (Instagram + Facebook)

CREATE DEMAND

Most homeowners don't know their lot is now legal to build on. Meta is where we tell them: before-and-afters, rental-income calculators, "a suite for your parents" creative, aimed at homeowners 40-plus with the four motivations. Home-improvement leads here run $25 to $75.¹³

Start: $50-80/day, one campaign, four ad sets mapped to the four buyers, creative refreshed off your quarterly shoot day.

3. Realtor & broker referrals

BORROW TRUST

This is your GIS idea, systemized. Agents sit at the exact "your lot qualifies for a suite" moment. Established ADU builders pay up to $10,000 per closed agent referral.¹⁴ We co-brand a "how to finance your backyard suite" kit and turn agents and mortgage brokers into a standing referral engine. Lowest cost per deal in the plan. More in Phase 2 below.

07 M3 · THE METHOD

The third M, and the one most builders skip: the machine behind the click. A lead that isn't called in the first five minutes is a lead you paid for and lost. This is the system that catches every one, qualifies it, and hands your team only the people worth their time. Every message in it is written out in The Sequences →

01

What we build in your CRM

- The lot-qualifier funnel and VSL landing page, message-matched to every ad.
- 30-second speed-to-lead: AI text and call the instant a form hits, so you never lose the 5-minute window.
- Automated qualifying and lead scoring so your team only talks to people ready to build.
- No-show recovery, long-term nurture, and a reviews engine so happy customers feed the next ten.

It sits alongside your HubSpot, and beside Laura

You run HubSpot today, and Laura knows your world cold from her years at Carrington. Nothing here rips that out. We run the acquisition engine in GoHighLevel, which I run deep, and hand qualified, warm people into your process. This frees Laura to stay on the higher-value development side where her experience pays most, while the residential line runs on rails. You get a marketing engine without hiring and training a second marketer.

08 TRACKING & THE NUMBERS

We don't guess. Every dollar is traced from the click to the booked call to the signed contract, so you always know your real cost per booked job, not vanity clicks. And we hold ourselves to hard gates so nothing runs on hope.

<1 min

Day 14

Speed-to-lead target on every inbound, verified with a live test signal before anything is called "live"

First kill-or-scale gate. If it isn't trending to target, we restructure. We don't "give it more time"

CPBC

Cost per booked call is the number we manage to, not impressions or clicks

2x

Payback floor. If the unit economics don't clear it, I tell you before we spend, not after

What you'll see every week

Spend, leads, cost per lead, booked calls, cost per booked call, and where every one came from, in one simple dashboard. Phone-ringing numbers, not "impressions." If a channel isn't paying, we cut it. If one is, we pour into it. You'll never wonder what your money did.

09 THE FIRST 60 DAYS

I tell clients 30 days to live and aim to beat it. Here's the week-by-week so you and Greg know exactly what happens and when.

Week 1 · Foundation

Kickoff, you give me access to the Google and Meta ad accounts, and we plan a factory + site shoot day (once a quarter is plenty). We lock the offer, the four buyer angles, and the message. You and Greg decide what we're allowed to showcase; you mentioned the 40 patents and how you connect the units, we'll frame it so it sells without giving the secret sauce away.

Week 2 · Build the engine

Lot-qualifier funnel and VSL page, the CRM build, 30-second speed-to-lead, qualifying flow, no-show recovery, reviews engine. Tracking wired and tested end-to-end before anything goes live.

Weeks 3-4 · Go live

Ads on, traffic into the funnel, first booked calls landing in your calendar. Live within 30 days of getting your assets.

Weeks 5-8 · Test and sharpen

Four full weeks of real data to tune creative, targeting and the offer. Day-14 gate, then Day-30. This is inside your setup window, so you're not paying a monthly retainer while we dial it in.

Access to the ad accounts, one shoot day we help coordinate, and a fast handoff to your setter or closer once a lead is qualified. It's completely unfair to ask anyone to market a company they've been under-equipped to represent, so good footage of the factory and finished units is the one thing that unlocks everything. You're at the plant in Three Hills on Tuesday; that's the perfect time to scope it with Greg and your plant manager.

10 PHASE 2 · SCALE THE RESIDENTIAL ENGINE

Once the ads are printing booked calls, we widen the residential funnel without touching the developer or land-JV side. This is where your own best ideas get built into the machine.

The GIS "productized lot" play

Your idea, and a strong one. We take one proven design, use GIS to find the 50 lots in a neighbourhood with the same geometry, and hand agents a ready product to sell: fixed factory price, only the site work varies. It turns your suite into a listing a realtor can market to a whole street, not a one-off custom job.

The territory reseller network

Also yours: local product experts by territory who sell the residential units in their town on an eat-what-you-kill basis, while you keep control of the marketing and the brand. We build the recruiting funnel and the partner kit, the same lead machine, pointed at recruiting resellers instead of buyers.

The referral flywheel

Suites cluster. The neighbour sees the crane, the finished unit, the happy owner. We wire a referral and reviews engine so every completed build feeds the next, and agents and mortgage brokers get a co-branded "finance your suite" kit that keeps sending you deals.

DELIBERATELY OUT OF SCOPE

Your experienced-developer capacity and the land-JV, real-estate-curious work are not in this plan. They sell on relationships, procurement and Greg's network, not paid ads, and I'd be lying if I told you a Facebook campaign wins them. This playbook stays entirely on the residential line.

When you're ready to talk about the bigger B2B pipeline, that's a separate conversation with a separate plan.

11 HOW WE WORK TOGETHER

Simple, and built so the risk sits with me, not you. One setup fee covers the build and the first 60 days. The monthly doesn't start until you're seeing a return. All figures in USD. Ad spend is separate and paid straight to the platforms.

SETUP · COVERS FIRST 60 DAYS

$10,000

Full build plus your first 60 days. Live within 30. You don't start paying the monthly retainer until you're seeing a return on ad spend and you're happy we're performing.

Monthly retainer (starts after ROI)

$2,000 / mo

Starting tier, once you're seeing a return

$4,000 / mo

Once you're spending $10K / mo on ads

$5,000 / mo

Capped here at $25K+ / mo ad spend. Never higher.

THE GUARANTEE

We keep working until you see results. No long-term retainer, no lock-in, leave any time. If we're not performing, we keep going for free until we are, or you walk.

LET'S FILL THAT RESIDENTIAL LINE.

You build the best units in Western Canada. I'll keep the right people walking through the door to order them. Review it with Greg after Tuesday's plant visit, and let's lock it in when we reconnect Friday at 3.

"Your backyard is now legal to build on. Find out what your lot qualifies for, and what your suite would cost, free, in 3 minutes."

Sub: A second home built in our factory and craned into place. Livable in weeks, not years. Licensed, insured, and CSA-approved so the city doesn't re-inspect.

The 3 outcomes

- Family, close by. A private home for your parents or your kids, on your land, without sharing a roof.
- Income that pays you back. A legal suite can rent for $2,000-$3,200 a month and adds real equity to your home.¹²
- Done in weeks. 85-90% is built in our factory while your site is prepped, then craned in. One crew, in and out.

Why Emerge (reasons to believe)

- 27 years and 20+ modular projects behind us.
- 40+ patents on how our units are built and connected.
- CSA-approved factory: the city accepts the factory stamp, one drain inspection on site and you're done.
- Built in Alberta. Local steel, local crew, no ocean freight, no surprises.

The financing unlock

"Most people assume they can't afford it. The federal government now lends up to $80,000 at 2% over 15 years to build a suite.⁸ On the call, we'll show you exactly how to use it."

B THE 90-SECOND VSL SCRIPT

Shot on your quarterly factory day. Caleb or Greg to camera, plain and direct, the way you talk. Least words, least time, sell the outcome.

[0:00 · Hook] "If you own a home in Alberta or BC, the law just changed, and almost nobody's told you. Your backyard is probably now legal to build a second home on."

[0:12 · Problem] "Maybe you've got parents who need to be close but want their own space. Maybe your kid can't afford to move out. Maybe you just want a suite that pays you rent every month. The problem has always been the same: building takes forever, trades are impossible to get, and the cost is a mystery."

[0:35 · Mechanism] "We're Emerge. We build homes in a factory. 85 to 90% of your suite is finished indoors while your site gets prepped, then we crane it into place in a day. CSA-approved, so the city doesn't crawl all over it. You get a finished, inspected home in weeks, not years."

[0:55 · Proof] "27 years, 40-plus patents, built right here in Alberta. Not shipped from overseas."

$80K Suite Loan At 2%, We'll Show You

Laneway & Garden Suites, Built In Alberta

Descriptions (4 assets)

Find out what your lot qualifies for and what your suite would cost, free. Built in our factory, craned into place, livable in weeks.

Licensed, insured, CSA-approved. 27 years and 40+ patents. Ask about the $80,000 federal suite loan at 2%.

Duplex, fourplex, laneway or in-law suite. Fixed factory price, one crane day, no trade delays. Get your estimate.

Alberta-built modular homes. Local steel, local crew, no offshore wait. See what you can build on your lot.

We block the wrong searches from day one: "jobs," "rent," "for sale," "DIY," "free," "shipping container house," competitor brand terms, and the wrong province's language, so you never pay for a click that can't become a customer.

C OBJECTIONS, ANGLES & THE DAMAGING ADMISSION

The 4 objections, answered

- "It's too expensive." Break it against 15+ years of rent, the equity added, and the $80K loan at 2%. A suite is an asset, not a cost.
- "Is it even legal on my lot?" That's the whole hook. The qualifier answers it in 3 minutes with their real address.
- "Modular feels cheap / temporary." CSA-approved, 40+ patents, steel and concrete, 4 to 26 storeys. This is heavier-built than a site frame, not lighter.
- "How long will it take?" Factory build runs while the site is prepped, then one crane day. Weeks, not the years a custom build takes.

The damaging admission to lead with Trust is won by saying the true hard thing first. Ours: "Modular isn't right for everyone. If you want a fully custom, hand-built home with a hundred changes along the way, we're not your builder. What we do is deliver a proven, factory-precise home, fast, at a price we can actually quote." It filters the wrong buyer and makes the right one lean in.

Same energy as your own line: no one gives a damn how good the factory is, they want to know what it does for them.

EVERY MESSAGE, FROM LEAD TO SIGNED JOB.

This is the follow-up machine most builders never build, and the reason they leak leads. Speed-to-lead, follow-up, long-term nurture, no-show recovery and reviews, all written out. Every message is voice-checked and personalized in your CRM before it sends.

THE FIRST 5 MINUTES · THE WHOLE GAME

Speed-to-lead

The instant a form hits, the engine fires. Text in 30 seconds, call in 2 minutes. The builder who calls back first wins the job, not the best one, the fastest one. This is the Sarah engine that booked your own call, pointed at your buyers.

Hi Sarah, it's Emerge Built 🙌
Thanks for checking what your lot qualifies for. Is this the best number to reach you?

Perfect. I've got your address and I'll have a quick answer on what you can build. Easiest is a 10-min call, are you free now or later this afternoon?

Done, sent you a 3pm invite. Talk soon, Sarah 🙌

The 30-second call script (AI or human)

Open: "Hi Sarah, this is Emerge Built calling you straight back about the suite you were looking at, is now an okay time for two minutes?"

Confirm: "I've got your address as [address], is that the lot you'd build on?"

Qualify: "Quick one, is this more for family, for rental income, or a resale project?" then "And are you looking to move in the next few months or still exploring?"

Book: "Great, the next step is a 15-minute call with our team to show you exactly what your lot qualifies for and the cost. I've got today at 3 or tomorrow at 10, which suits?"

If no answer: voicemail drop + the text above fire automatically, then the follow-up sequence below picks it up.

FOR THE LEAD WHO DIDN'T ANSWER OR BOOK

The follow-up sequence

Most leads don't book on the first touch. This 7-touch sequence over 10 days mixes text and email, each one a different angle, so we stay useful, not annoying. It stops the second they book.

SMS track

Sarah, still keen to see what your lot qualifies for? Takes 10 mins and there's no cost. Here's a time: [link]

Day 1

Quick one, most people are surprised what's legal on their lot now with the new rules. Want me to pull yours up?

Day 3

Sarah, a lot of folks hold off because of cost. There's an $80K government loan at 2% for exactly this, happy to walk you through it.

Day 6

I'll stop chasing after this one 😊 If the timing's not right, no stress, just reply STOP. If it is, here's my calendar: [link]

Day 10

From: John @ Emerge Built

Day 2 · "What your neighbour just built"

Hi Sarah,

When you checked your lot the other day, you were probably surprised it's even an option. You're not alone, the rules changed and almost nobody got the memo.

Here's a suite we finished three streets over: [photo]. Factory-built, craned in, the owners had it rented inside a couple of months.

If you want, I'll pull up exactly what your lot qualifies for and roughly what it'd cost. No charge, no hard sell.

Day 7 · "The part nobody tells you about paying for it"

Hi Sarah, most people assume a backyard suite is out of reach. It's the #1 reason they don't build.

So here's the part the other builders skip: the federal government now lends up to $80,000 at 2% over 15 years to build a suite. On a quick call we'll show you how it works on your lot.

FOR THE "NOT RIGHT NOW" LEAD · THE LONG GAME

The nurture sequence

Plenty of these buyers are 6 to 12 months out. We don't discard them, we stay top of mind with genuinely useful, low-pressure emails roughly every 10 to 14 days, so when they're ready, you're the only builder they think of. Four samples from the rotation.

Nurture · value

"3 backyard suites and what they cost"

Real numbers beat vague ranges. Here are three suites we built this year, what they cost, and what they now rent for. No fluff, just the math so you can picture yours. [breakdown]

"Calgary's window is closing"

Heads up if you're in Calgary: the blanket rezoning that made suites easy is set to be repealed in Aug 2026, but applications in before then are grandfathered.⁷ If a suite's on your radar, this is the year to lock it in. Here's what your lot qualifies for.

"Why the Nguyens built for their daughter"

The Nguyens didn't want their daughter paying $1,900 a month for a basement across town. So they put a suite in the backyard. She's home, she's independent, and their property's worth more. Short story + photos inside.

"Modular vs stick-built: the honest comparison"

Straight talk on where modular wins and where it doesn't, so you can decide with clear eyes. (Spoiler: if you want 100 custom changes mid-build, we're not your builder. If you want it done right, fast, at a real price, we are.)

BOOKED BUT DIDN'T SHOW

No-show recovery

A booked call that no-shows is not a dead lead, it's a busy one. This runs automatically the moment a call is missed, and it re-books a big share of them.

Hi Sarah, we had you down for 3pm today about your suite, looks like life got in the way 😊 No worries. Want me to grab another time?

5 min after miss

Sorry! Got slammed at work

Totally get it. Here's my calendar, pick whatever's easy: [link]

Then: Day-1 email "still want to know what your lot qualifies for?", Day-3 text with a finished-suite photo, drops into the long-term nurture if no re-book.

AFTER THE BUILD · FEED THE NEXT TEN

Reviews & referrals

Suites cluster. The neighbour sees the crane and the finished home. So the job isn't done at handover, it's the start of the next lead. This fires automatically once a build completes.

Sarah, it's been a week in the new suite 🏠 how's it feeling? If you're happy, would you mind leaving a quick Google review? Means the world and helps other families find us: [link]

Day 7 post-handover

Absolutely, we love it!

You're the best 🙌 One more thing, if a neighbour ever asks about it, send them here and we'll take great care of them: [referral link]

The referral & reviews engine

- Review request at Day 7 post-handover, to Google and Facebook, timed to peak happiness.
- Referral ask with a simple co-branded link the owner can forward to a neighbour.
- Agent & broker kit for the "finance your suite" partners, so realtors and mortgage brokers keep sending deals (the GIS play from Phase 2).
- Yard-sign moment, a tasteful "Built by Emerge" sign during install, in a neighbourhood full of identical lots that are now all legal to build on.
